We recently bought an old Compaq Evo D5S desktop PC that we planned on upgrading and giving to my younger cousin. Problem is, we can't get the case to open. It has two tabs on the side of the case, and it won't slide open in any direction when we push the tabs in. We don't even know if this is the correct way to open it. There doesn't seem to be any screws in the way, either.
